an ice cream supper in the yard of Mrs Ham at Hyattsville on Saturday September 17th. They are endeavoring to make up money to build a union church at that point. The Ministers of the Lancaster churches have been preaching there this summer and the people are very anxious for a church.
Every one should attend and help the good cause, admission only 15 cents.

Rigsby-Wilson.

The wedding of Mr. Charles Rigsby to Miss Anna Wilson was solemnized at the bride's home on Wednesday morning at ten o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. O. P. Bush, after which the happy couple left on their bridal trip. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Wilson of Kirkville, and is a beautiful young girl, beloved by all who know her and has the well wishes of many friends.
Mr. Rigsby is a son of Mr. and Mrs.
J. H. Rigsby of Lincoln County and is a popular young farmer of the Prea-chersville neighborhood, and is to be congratulated on winning such a girl for his bride. Only the immediate family was present. After their return they will go to house keeping at his farm where he has furnished a lovely home. The Record joins their many friends in wishing them a long and happy life.

Joe Ray Drowned.

Joseph Ray age 20 years, son of John Ray, who lives on the Poor Ridge pike about seven miles from town was drowned in Sugar Creek near Kentucky river on last Friday night.

Young Ray attended preaching at Mount Hebron church Friday night, and the last seen of him by his friends was when he mounted his horse and rode toward home. The next morning his hat was found near the road a short distance from the church, further along his horse was found grazing by the roadside, further search led to the back water in the mouth of sugar creek and the finding of the young man's body. It is supposed that in some manner he fell from his horse and the animal escaped from him, and in stumbling about in the dark he fell in the creek.

The remains of the unfortunate young man were interred in the family burying ground on Sunday and was followed to their last resting place by a large concourse of friends.

Fined For Selling Malt Mead and Similar Concoctions.

Some weeks ago warrants were served on all the soft drink dealers in Richmond who sell malt mead and similar concoctions, the evidence in the cases resulting from an analysis of the liquid sold in this city. These cases were called for trial in police court Wednesday afternoon, the court room being filled with citizens who were anxious to witness the outcome of the trials. Black & Black, Kennedy & Kennedy, Jones and Jones and Jerry Powers were found guilty and a fine of $50 assessed each on an agreed verdict in the case of Black & Black. Mrs.
Winnie Smith was fined $50 and the case against Martin Gentry resulted in a hung jury. The chemist from State College, Lexington, who analyzed the beverages secured by Captain Altman from the various dealers in this city, testified that the liquids contained from 3-12 to 4-8-100 per cent alcohol. Those found guilty have appealed their cases to the circuit court.

AGAINST SELLING NEAR BEER.

Rousing Meeting at the Christian Church.

What is said to be the largest gathering of the kind ever held in Lancaster was the Union meeting at the Christian church Sunday evening.
This was previously arranged as a protest against the establishing and maintaining of "soft drink" saloons in the community where concoctions are sold containing less than two per cent alcohol. Talks were made by many of the leading citizens of the community.
The speakers were strongly against the sale of these drinks. Such places were described as resorts for the congregation of the tough elements of society and the general effect of the "hot joint" was thought by the speakers to be degrading and a general disturbance to the community. At the conclusion of the meeting the chairman asked all who would volunteer to assist in every possible legal way to rid the city and county of these places to arise. At the very word of the chairman the large audience was upon their feet.

BOYLE CIRCUIT COURT

Opened Last Monday With Judge Lewis L.
Walker on the Bench.

Tells the Grand Jury to go After the
"Blind Tigers" and "Hop Joints."

The Boyle Circuit Court convened in Danville last Monday with Judge Walker presiding.

In delivering his charge to the grand jury, Judge Walker took occasion to pay a beautiful tribute to the late Judge Micah C. Sausley, which was said by many of those present to be one of the finest things of the kind they had ever heard. His honor then proceeded to outline the history and purpose of the grand jury and the qualifications of the jurors. After a definition of the classes into which offenses might be divided he further charged the jury to investigate all public officers and public buildings, especially the jail and the work house.
Judge Walker called the specific attention of the grand jury to the fish and game laws, the laws against selling adulterated and unwholesome food, and the necessity of a rigid enforcement of the local option laws.

We give below that portion of Judge Walker's instruction pertaining to the illegal sale of liquor.

The sale by retail of intoxicating liquors is prohibited by law in this county, except by licensed druggists on the prescription of a regular practicing physician and it is your duty to investigate, and if they are otherwise sold, you will indict the guilty parties so that they may be brought to trial in this court.

It is the duty of every good citizen to promote temperance in all things in every possible way. Some people are intemperate in the excessive use of intoxicants, others in non-intoxicants, others in eating and others in the intemperate use of their vile tongues in the slander and abuse of their neighbors, and their green eyes of envy and jealousy and black hearts of prejudice and hate cannot stand to see their fellow citizens prosper, but they prefer to keep all others on a lower level with themselves, rather than to undertake to rise to a higher plane of goodness and truth. They rejoice in the adversity of those whom God has made in his own image and sorrow and grow mad at the advancement of their fellow man. And all this in the face of the only commandment which the Master saw fit to add to those delivered to Moses on Mount Sinai "Love thy neighbor as thyself." I care not what may be your individual opinion on the moral question as to how is the best way to solve the drink problem. Some of you may advocate prohibition, some high license, and others local option, but you can all agree that no decent man can defend in morals the low dive saloon or the blind tiger. Happily for us we have not the former with which to contend, but the latter is ever with us. I desire now to warn the keepers of such places that they must cease such practices in this district or suffer the penalties prescribed by the law.

I trust that they will desist because I assure you that it will be no pleasure to me to administer punishment to the poor wretches who conduct such rendezvous of vice and crime, but it must be done unless they stop. They are menace to the community and more especially to the colored population and the youths of the land. There are no conditions that have so lowered and destroyed the best interests of the negro race in Central Kentucky than has the establishment of these hot beds of crime.

You go to a community where they exist, and you will find this race, already suffering under the yoke of former slavery, still held by the greater bondage of moral turpitude producing idle criminals. Where these practices have been wiped out you find an industrious, hard working class, undertaking to earn their bread by the sweat of their brows. However, it is on the character and lives of the youth that these haunts of evil have their most dreadful operations. The young man will dodge the saloon, where he knows that the gaze of the public is fixed, out in the stillness of the night, when he conceives that his parents are at home asleep and unconscious of his acts, that he will be drawn into these secret and hidden places where he not only contracts the evil of the drink habit, but where he comes in contact with other forms of temptations and wrong doing. These places can be stopped and must be destroyed.
I can say, not boastfully but truthfully, that since I have been City Attorney of Lancaster, that we have had no blind tigers there, I do not take this credit entirely to myself, but every member of the city administration, who was associated with me should have equal, if not more credit than myself. This result was accomplished without shedding one drop of human blood and without even causing as much as a breach of the peace. I mention this to show you that it is possible to prevent these dives. It is easy to say that we should not have blind tigers, and that you should indict them and put a stop to them. It is easy to tell what should be done, but we must know how to do it. In this alone can we accomplish something.

You are to be the judge, but I doubt if it is wise to summons boys before the grand jury to ask them general questions as to the violation of the liquor laws. They are in league with the keepers of these resorts not to tell; and I sometimes think that the evil which comes from such a school of perjury is greater than any good that is reached in finding indictments.
I desire however, to suggest a course of procedure to you. You will first locate these places, summons two or three of the best men from each neighborhood in your county and ask them if they know or have heard of any blind tigers or other violations of the law in their sections. If they have, investigate thoroughly.
Ascertain who frequents them.
Have these people summoned, and before you begin to question them, warn them of the terrible results of a perjured soul by telling them that you have information that they know of these violations of the law, and that you are first going to give them a chance to tell the truth about the matter, but if they swear falsely, you will endeavor to indict them for perjury and have them sent to the penitentiary.
After you locate these blind tigers, if they are in the city, notify the chief of police and ask him to furnish evidence on which they can be convicted; if in the county, outside of the city, make the same request of the sheriff.
If you locate them, they can be broken up in a legal way, and when once spotted the guns of the law shall not cease to fire until they shall be battered to the ground. After you have found out the whereabouts of these violations of the liquor laws, notify your commonwealths attorney, and he will suggest to you or to the officers the method in which they can be detected. I would do so publicly, but it would only put the keepers on their guard to avoid the remedy I have incited and which I will fully explain to the commonwealths attorney.

I trust you will make a vigorous investigation along this line, and give these people to understand that they mean business, and as soon as you convince them that you do, they will move out and cease their nefarious operations.

There is another matter along this line to which I desire to direct your attention. There has sprung up what are known as "soft drink stands," where malt liquors containing a small per cent of alcohol are sold. The court of appeals has decided that where these liquors are non-intoxicating and contain less than 2 per cent of alcohol their sale cannot be prevented under the local option laws. However, I instruct you to investigate these places carefully, and when you find that any one has become drunk by the use of any drink sold at these stands, you will indict the proprietor for selling intoxicating liquors. You will also see that they have been running orderly houses, and if they have permitted idle and immoral persons to habitually loaf around their places for an unreasonable length of time, or have permitted loud noises or other breaches of the peace therein to the annoyance or disturbance of good citizens, you will report the facts to the commonwealths attorney, and if he thinks he can secure a conviction, you will indict the owner of the premises and those in charge for maintaining a nuisance.

In conclusion I beg to impress upon you the importance and responsibility of your position as grand jurors. Upon your proper conduct depends the enjoyment in a large measure of the great blessings that have come to us through the ages of the past. Our great liberties and free institutions were not handed to us as manna from Heaven, but have been won and maintained by the blood of our fathers and the hardships and struggles of our mothers. Inch by inch and step by step they have been gained, and realizing this great cost and the many sacrifices made for them, we should deeply appreciate our environments by doing all that in our power lies to perform well our parts, in whatever station in life we may be called. Every man should be guaranteed his personal liberty, his personal security, his rights of property, his privilege to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience and to pursue his own happiness in his own way, so long as he does not transgress the law of the land. These results can be best obtained by a just and reasonable enforcement of the law by our courts of justice. I would not have you unjust or unreasonable in your deliberations or actions, for such conduct would bring the law into contempt and destroy its usefulness. As grand jurors you should know neither friend nor foe, but you should fearlessly and conscientiously do your whole duty.
You should neither wrongfully protect or reward a friend nor unjustly punish or wrong a foe. But so act, that all shall know that the rich and powerful shall observe your rightful mandates and the poor and weak shall feel the influence of your protection and strength. Real pleasure only comes in doing what we think is right. We have thought that we found pleasure in the follies of youth, but we look back from the stage of manhood but to warn the coming generation from such mistaken ideas.
We may think that we can find pleasure in the luxuries of life, but we indulge only to learn that such is vanity.
Real pleasure only comes in doing good for others and in duty well performed, which when done, we can retire to the love and affection of our own families with a clear conscience, that shall bring to us peace on earth and lasting hope for an eternal reward.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR CONGRESS.

Harvey Helm, of Lincoln County.

Governor Patterson's Withdrawal.

In withdrawing from the democratic ticket in Tennessee as the nominee for Governor Malcolm B. Patterson says that he has never performed a public act for which he is ashamed. He may not be, but think how humiliated were his constituency in that good state, how ashamed were the democrats of the state and the whole nation when he unpunished and without reasonable excuse pardoned Duncan B. Cooper for the murder of Senator Carmack. It is a shining evidence of the deep conviction of right, honesty of purpose and true manhood of the democracy in Tennessee in their constant and determined fight to prevent an endorsement of the contemptible course of an executive who has so misused the trust imposed in him. Some of his acts have been enough for every Tennesseean to endure but an endorsement of them by his re-election would have been too bad. Now with Patterson off the ticket and out of the way, if his withdrawal is in good faith, it is to be hoped that the wise men of the Democracy in Tennessee may gather up the fragments of the disreputable and divided party left by the Patterson regime and find a leader who will bring victory and then give an administration that will restore confidence to the people in the party that they once implicitly trusted.

New Death Chair.

The old time barbarous way of inflicting the death penalty will soon be a thing of the past as the work of installing the death chair at the Eddyville penitentiary is going on steadily and will be ready for use in a few weeks. The electrocution law became effective on June 14th and if a crime is committed after that time for which the death penalty is imposed the condemned man will be electrocuted. There has been a notable change made in the prison at Frankfort. The old penitentiary at this place will soon be converted into a reformatory and this is one of the principle reasons the death chair was located at Eddyville instead of Frankfort as it is hardly probable the death penalty will be inflicted in a reformatory. The Prison Commission will be ready in a few months to begin the transfer of the prisoners. All the prisoners over thirty years of age will be taken to Eddyville and all under thirty will be taken to Frankfort, also under this new law all prisoners no matter what the crime, that meet the requirements as to conduct can be paroled and quite a number are now being granted.

How To Meet Mail Order Competition.

The wise merchant spends little time in general denunciation of the big mail order houses, and much time in study of their catalogues, to learn their weak points, says the Owensboro Enquirer. He soon sees that many lines of goods sell in his store for less than the mail order price.

If you are affected by this competition, why not try advertising, showing in parallel columns the mail order price and the home merchant's price. Then ask your readers, even if the two bargains are equal, if they would not rather buy at home, where they can return goods prove to be not as represented? Also ask them if they have considered the well known tendency of the big metropolitan house to work off seconds on the public, buying "unsight and unseen," hundreds of miles away.

Also ask the public if it is not an advantage to talk a purchase over with a salesman before putting down good money, and ask them if the meager information in the mail order catalogue answers all the questions they would like to ask?

McCreary Wins Contest.

The following special was sent out from Lexington Saturday: Triumphant were the forces of James B. McCreary in the outcome of the meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee in this city today, when the main interest of the gathering of political leaders resolved itself into a question of control of the party organization.

A clean sweep of the pan was made by the McCreary support when Col. John Whallen lay down and his representative on the committee, Ernest Neuman, of Louisville, presented a resolution naming Judge Albie W. Young, of Rowan county, as chairman and Henry R. Prewitt, of Montgomery county, as secretary of the campaign committee for this fall. It was the signal that the Johnson-Whallen forces had acknowledged the supremacy in the party organization of the ex-Senator and ex-Governor. The oft repeated fable of the lion and the lamb was once more acted, but this time by necessity.

Newspaper As A Booster.

In speaking before the Northern Development Association recently, Leroy Boucher of the Minneapolis Tribune said:

"Every commercial organization ought to include all the newspaper men in the district, for these men, who study nothing but the best methods of making people read what they write, can be of assistance to a community in making people read its message."

"It's of no use to have a splendid article for sale if you can't sell it."

"Make the news of your community readable and you needn't worry about publicity."

"If you keep telling people what a fine state they have, what splendid farms, what unexcelled advantages they will talk about it and spread the gospel and they won't do it unless you keep telling them. If the newspapers talk about their towns every day, every week, their readers will follow their lead."

Public Sentiment.

Those persons interested in the Hop joints in this community can easily understand what the local public thinks of their business by the spirit, enthusiasm, and the large attendance at the meetings held by way of protest. Public sentiment is a powerful agency in the government affairs of this country. Law does not remain long upon the statute books if public sentiment is against it. Neither, does a condition wanted, long remain without a law enabling the people to have it when the public is sufficiently aroused in its favor. Past experience has convinced us that when anything is going on in the community against the wishes of the people a legal way will sooner or later be found to have it cease. If the lightning strikes the fellows, in the city who are behind the 'hop joints, they can not truly say that the roaring skies have not foretold the coming bolt.

Fight on in Eleven.

As we go to press this Thursday morning, the fight for the republican nomination for congress in the eleven district is going on and by eight o'clock tonight we will very likely know whether Don C. Edwards who is claimed has only the republican machine behind him, or Caleb Powers who was thrice convicted of the murder of Gov. Wm. Goebel shall be the republican nominee.

The politicians, it is claimed are for Edwards and the majority of the people for Powers. If this is the case it is to be hoped that the people have their man, even though he was convicted of the murder of one of the greatest men that Kentucky ever knew. Of course it is hard for any Kentuckian to swallow the dose that will be handed them if Powers is sent to Washington however the people of that district are to be the judge and if they nominate him by a fair vote then the Edwards machine should not be allowed to rob him.

It seems that either of them are bad enough and the only solution to the problem is to break the record and elect a democratic congressman in that district.

Don't forget Mr. Helm.

It looks very much as if the fight for the democratic nomination for Governor would overshadow the races for Congress in the State of Kentucky this fall. The talk is, who are you for for Governor? and not a word about the Democratic nominee for Congress. There is plenty of time later on to settle the nomination for Governor, as we can do that next year. Now is the time to be building our fences and to see that Hon. Harvey Helm defeats his opponent, Col. Exell, by a large majority. One thing at a time and do that well. Next year's races can take care of themselves. So fellow Democrats, talk Helm for Congress until after the November election and then we will decide whether McCreary, Johnson, Head, Hendricks or some other good man shall be our standard bearer next year for Governor.—Anderson News.

W. J. Bryan recently read those delectable out of the party who helped elect Senator Lorimer, Republican of Illinois, to the U. S. Senate. Mr Roosevelt went it one better by refusing to speak at the Hamilton Republican Club Banquet in Chicago if Senator Lorimer had a seat at the table. Pretty hard on the corruptionists these days.

Have you ever heard that saying? "Where there's a will, there's a way." The people here have the will to be rid of the "Hop Joint." Now read Judge Walker's instructions to the Boyle county grand jury and see what he says about hop joints.

The State of Maine has for the first time in thirty years elected a democratic Governor. The outlook was never brighter for the democrats, and if they keep their heads together, we are sure to have a democratic President next time.

W. J. Bryan may never be president, but whenever his history is written it will describe the career of a great American.

A month ago a St. Louis florist advertised for an ugly girl for cashier, at a good salary. He is still without a cashier.

The Initiative and Referendum carried in Arkansas. Why not Kentucky have this plan of direct Legislation?

The woman's Home and foreign Missionary Society will meet next Monday afternoon in the basement of the Presbyterian church.

Two Safe Bets.

A $5,000,000 ship subsidy grab and a central government bank are two bets in the event of the next House of Representatives retaining its present Republican majority. If the House Democratic it is an equally good bet that special privilege will be disappointed on both propositions.

A Safe Guess.

Some time ago a man named Kremser, bought a building in Salem Ohio and fitted it up as a soft drink resort. Kremser could not withstand the temptation of trying to sell intoxicants in "dry" territory, and was arrested on two charges. Mayor Carlisle fined Kremser $300 and he's and abated the place as a nuisance. It is a safe guess that Kremser is now sorry he invested his money in Salem.—American Issue.

We expect there are many more who are also sorry.

Wins at Knoxville.

Mr. J. H. Baughman of Stanford attended the Appalachian exposition at Knoxville this week. He won eight of his show mules to Mr. W. N. Griffin, of Gallatin, Tenn., during his big sale at Stanford last week and had the pleasure of seeing each of the mules win in their class as well as the sweepstakes. Mr. Baughman is delighted that his show mules did so well and that his customer is well pleased with them. About $1,000.00 worth of his stock came to Garrard county.

Where and When?

"The Republican party," declares the Republican textbook, "stands for the imposition of such duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with a reasonable profit for American industries."

It is true the Republicans promised such a revision in the 1908 platform, but it is safe to predict no Republican candidate for office will declare that the tariff was ever revised on that basis. All genuine progressive Republicans are on record as stating that the promise was ignored as completely as if it had never been made. Revision of the tariff on the basis indicated would have been a big downward revision, while the Republicans revised it upward by 1.71 per cent.

Colored Man Found Dead.

The body of Geo Jenkins (col) was found on last Friday morning by Mr. Hugh Wayne on the banks of Dix River about five miles from town near where the new Danville water works dam is being constructed. Jenkins lived on the "Shout" here and has been missing for about two weeks. He was last seen on his way to the river fishing. A knife and bottle of medicine were found on the dead man. They were brought to town by Coroner Farra, and Jenkins wife identified the knife as belonging to her husband. His body was badly decayed and his clothes all torn and the varmint along the river had eaten part of his body, so the only way there was of identifying him was by the knife. The body was buried on the side of the river last Friday morning.

New Tailored Suits-More Than 300 Now In Stock-Most Varied Line We Have Ever Shown-We Want You To See Them.

Considering the demoralized condition of the Cloak and Suit trade in New York City, resulting from the strike of over a hundred thousand tailors, we consider ourselves remarkably fortunate in being able to offer our trade the largest and best assorted line of high grade Tailored Suits we have ever shown this early in the season.

We are enabled to do this because a number of firms making our finest suits recognized the justice of the strikers demands and met them half-way and settled with them Aug 1st., and went to work at once while the other makers tried to fight the strike.

Not only have we the largest stock but we also have the most varied in styles, materials and colors, showing more than Ninety distinct styles of suits.

As usual we have paid particular attention to the tailoring and finishing of suits and materials and linings, as we intend our customers shall have the Best. You can pay more money but you cannot get better than our best.

Another very important fact is that we have all our suits made by tailors who make a specialty of garments for SOUTHERN WOMEN--that is why our garments fit so well.

While we have a number of very desirable style suits well made of all wool materials at $15, we are very strong on suits from $20. to $45.

Come in often as every express from the east now will be bringing us in new goods.

GUARDING SYLVIA

"It's quite a relief," remarked Mrs. Robell, with a smile of engaging frankness, "not to find any young men here."

The others in the group of married women on the summer hotel porch exchanged surprised glances.

"You see," continued Mrs. Robell, "when one has an only daughter one is apt to be a bit selfish. I simply can't bear the thought of parting with Sylvia and it makes me positively ill to see a lot of young men dangling about her all the time as they do at home. So I just said to her father the other day: 'I'm going to take her to some quiet spot where I can have a little peace of mind.' He suggested our coming here, as he had heard of the place through a business acquaintance."

"Was it Mr. Reddington?" queried Mrs. Dale, the mother of two marriageable daughters.

"Yes, I believe it's Reddington or Edgington. I'm woefully forgetful about names."

"Doesn't his presence cause you any anxiety?" The more acute members of the group scented sarcasm in Mrs. Dale's question.

"Oh, no," replied Mrs. Robell in perfect good humor; "my husband has told me what a confirmed old bachelor he is. Why, there he is now. Oh, Mr. Reddington!" Mrs. Robell's voice was girlishly clear and gay. "If you are going to the tennis courts will you be so good as to stop at the wooden swing and if it's sunny there tell my daughter to come on to the veranda? I'm afraid reading in the sun will make her head ache."

"Trust me to send her back to you if I find her in the sun," said Reddington.

An hour later, when Mrs. Dale, in search of her own two daughters, who were playing tennis with school-boy partners, passed the wooden swing in which Reddington and Sylvia Robell were sitting, she said to herself: "That woman knew all the time that the swing wasn't in a sunny place!"

Not long after the Robells' arrival at the hotel Mrs. Robell confided her anxieties to Reddington.

"You can see, Mr. Reddington," she said, appealingly, "how unhappy it makes me to have those threesome men writing by every mail, simply begging to be allowed to come here. I'm going to throw all formality and conventionality to the winds and implore you, as a friend of my husband's, to help me. I want you to keep Sylvia from being alone with the man who, against all my remonstrances, insists upon coming here over Sunday. I fear I'm not strong enough to chaperon her all day."

"Is Miss Sylvia interested in the fellow?" asked Reddington.

"No, but you know how tender-hearted a young girl, like Sylvia is. I'm afraid she'll be led by her sympathy into making some promise she will regret later. I think it's a mother's duty to guard against these dangers."

"I think so, too," agreed Reddington, heartily.

The callow young man who had supposed himself first in the affections of Sylvia wondered all day Sunday why old Reddington, who must have been thirty-five at least, hung around her so constantly. He meant to ask Sylvia when he got her off alone, but he did not get her off alone. Either her mother or Reddington was present all the time. So he took the night boat back to town in an uncomfortable state of mystification.

Only a few days later Mrs. Robell announced to Mrs. Dale her intention of returning home with Sylvia.

"Do you think it safe to take Sylvia back among all those young men?" asked Mrs. Dale sweetly.

"Well," Mrs. Robell laughed, "I'm afraid I'm a failure as a duenna. I don't know what my husband will say. I didn't mean to tell any one until he knew, but we shall be with him tomorrow, so I don't mind telling you in confidence that, notwithstanding my unrelenting care, dear little Sylvia has become engaged! It's a great blow to me."

"Mr. Reddington?" asked Mrs. Dale. "Yes, and you know yourself how I trusted him. Who would have dreamed of such a thing?"

"It must surprise you greatly," replied Mrs. Dale with almost too much emphasis, "but I'm sure you will try to bear up."

"I shall do my best to be brave. For I always do," answered Mrs. Robell, with her never-failing good humor.

Cornwall and its "Charms." Cornwall, England, is a county of "charms." The passing of children through holes in the earth, rocks or trees, once an established rite, is still practised in various parts of Cornwall, write Thomas Q. Couch about 50 years ago. "With us, boys are cured by creeping on the hands and knees beneath a bramble which has grown into the soil at both ends. Children afflicted with hernia are still passed through a slit in an ash sapling before sunrise, fasting; after which the slit portions are bound up, and as they unite so the malady is cured. The ash is indeed a tree of many virtues; venomous reptiles are never known to rest under its shadow, and a single blow from an ash stick is instant death to an adder; struck by a bough of any other tree, the reptile is said to retain marks of life until the sun goes down."

Harmony. Perhaps you make the mistake of trying to harmonize outside things with you. Harmony is and you are it. Be still and know. Harmonize with the One Spirit, and let conditions play sizes and severns if they will. Just smile at them, and enjoy. By and by you will hear harmony in the tones that now seem like discord—only because your mind is not tuned to them. Of the things you dislike now, you will later say: "best thing that ever happened!"—Elizabeth Towne in Nautica.

Keep Boys at Home.

Some people think it a mystery that notwithstanding good advice their boys grow up to be wild and reckless young men. If these boys were taught from infancy that home was the proper place for them after dark, rather than prowling around the streets, annoying well and sick people alike much of this mystery might be explained, and young men with better moral character and more intelligent minds would be the result. No parent need expect pure morals in a boy that prowls the streets at night, even if he does go to Sunday school.

Crop Report.

Timely rainfalls during the last month have done much for crops in Kentucky, according to the report of M. C. Rankin, Commissioner of Agriculture, covering every county in the state. The following is the report which is of interest to all farmers:

The rainfall during the month of August was not so great as that of the preceding month, but the rains came when they were badly needed. In some places there are a number of reports that they are needing rain badly.

Tobacco has shown considerable improvement, and corn has shown very marked improvement.

Totals for the State - Average yield of wheat per acre, 11 bushels; average quality of wheat, 78 per cent; condition of corn, 75 per cent; average yield of potatoes per acre, 65 bushels. average yield of oats per acre, 22 bushels. prospect for burley tobacco, 54 per cent; prospect for dark tobacco, 62 per cent; condition of hemp, 89 per cent; increase of livestock, 14 per cent; decrease of livestock, 15 per cent; average price of poultry per pound, 10 cents; average price of eggs per dozen, 14 cents.

Butter and Butter Substitutes.

The great majority of people eat butter and much prefer it to any of the substitutes which have been put upon the market. However, a great many people must use a substitute on account of the high prices which prevail during certain months of the year.

Oleomargarine is the most common substitute for butter and millions of pounds of this product are consumed each year. The difference in cost of production between oleomargarine and butter is so great that when butter is retailed at forty cents per pound, oleomargarine may be retailed at twenty cents per pound at as great a profit to the dealer.

The person who chooses to purchase the substitute should be allowed to do so and be required to pay only the price of the substitute. The difference in price between the genuine product and the substitute is so great that dealers are tempted to sell the latter for the former. Only by requiring that the consumers may differentiate between the two articles can honest traffic in the substitute be insured.

This was contemplated by Congress when the present internal revenue tax of ten cents per pound was levied upon "artificially colored oleomargarine." Many people think that all oleomargarine is taxed ten cents per pound. This is not a fact. Oleomargarine which is "artificially colored" so that the consumer cannot distinguish it from butter is the only oleomargarine that is thus taxed. When it is put upon the market in its natural color it is only taxed one-fourth of one cent per pound.

It is only when the product is made to look like butter so that it may fraudulently sold as butter that a burdensome tax is imposed upon it. The imposition of the tax is not to suppress the sale of oleomargarine or to make it more expensive to the consumers, but to prevent fraud in its sale.

Before and After.

The career of every successful man may be divided into two periods; first, when he is not given credit for what he knows, and second, when he is given credit for what he doesn't know.—Life.

The Lash of a Fiend

would have been about as welcome to A. Cooper, of Oswego, N. Y., as a merciless lung-racking cough that defied all remedies for years. "It was most troublesome at night," he writes, "nothing helped me till I used Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me completely. I never cough at night now." Millions know its matchless merit for stubborn colds, obstinate coughs, sore lungs, lagrippe, asthma, hemorrhage, croup, whooping cough, or hayfever. It relieves quickly and never fails to satisfy. A trial bottle free. It's positively guaranteed by R. E. McRoberts & Son.

The Office Boy.

Daniel Waldo Field, the millionaire shoe manufacturer of Brockton, Mass., who started life as a boy in the office of a large shoe manufacturing concern says the day of the rise of the office boy is past. He puts it this way:

The old day of the successful business man, who began as an office boy, is over in my opinion, and the new generation of successful business man, will be those who have been trained in the scientific principles of commerce in all its branches just as the lawyer, doctor or engineer is trained.

Mr. Fields is correct, as any successful business man of today will tell you. This is a day of specialists, and the successful man must be especially trained for some particular line of work, and to be equal in the competitive battle for business he must have more advantages than can be obtained merely by office work. Of course after he has been specially trained office work is essential in a practical way, especially that part of it which would further prepare him for his work.

Therefore young men prepare yourself, during your school days and you will reach the goal of your ambition sooner than if you go along in a half shod sort of away.

Back Gives Out

You tax the kidneys—overwork them—

They can't keep up the continual strain.

The back gives out—it aches and pains;

Urinary troubles set in. Don't wait longer—take Doan's Kidney Pills.

Residents of this vicinity endorse them.

Can Lancaster people doubt the following evidence?

Capt. Thomas Richards, W. Main St., Stanford, Ky., says: "Many years ago my kidneys began to trouble me. My back became so lame that I could not stoop and I slept poorly at night. Sometimes an almost complete retention of the kidney secretions existed, then again I had a frequent desire to pass them. When the kidney secretions were voided, a burning pain was present. I finally had the good fortune to learn of Doan's Kidney Pills and I commenced their use. This remedy gave me great relief and in view of my experience, I consider it the best preparation of its kind I have ever taken. I have recommended Doan's Kidney pills to scores of people and everyone has reported that good results have followed their use."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

NEW AND ARTISTIC SHAPE
Bodice Made of Petals is One of the Distinct Novelties of the Season.

Among the startling bodices that are worn in the afternoon with the high waisted, long skirt is one that is made of petals. It is quite interesting and very artistic. The gown is a dull purple satin cloth, the skirt made with four scanty circular flounces that are sloped sharply across the figure from right to left. The material is slightly draped at top of high waist line and caught at the left side with a buckle of amethysts.
The bodice is full over the chest. It is made in tones of purple. There is a satin lining of dull purple, covered with silver fish net, then white Lierre lace. Over this there are petals in one tone of purple that run downward from collar bone to bust, and other petals of black velvet that run from top of skirt to bust. The sleeves are made in the same way, and the stock is of the lace edged with a bit of gold.

THE LOST LETTER

By LAWRENCE ALFRED CLAY

It is of no consequence what the misunderstanding was about. The lives of young people are full of misunderstandings, and the more they are in love the thicker the misunderstandings come along. Cupid sends them as tests. Where two people in love can't patch up a misunderstanding and go ahead and be happier than before they shouldn't marry.
It was a little awkward in this case that Miss Nina Farrand, school teacher, was going on her summer vacation the next morning, and so Mr. James Clingham of the insurance company wouldn't have an opportunity to drop in next evening and bring the dove of peace under his arm. Miss Nina had as good as said that she wouldn't write a line while she was gone, and he had as good as said that his time would be fully occupied without writing private letters.
When Miss Nina reached her aunt's in the country she found it was five miles from the nearest post office. She had given Mr. Clingham the address before she started. On the way up there she hoped the distance would be 20 miles, for she was cross-eyed, but when told it was only five miles her heart was like lead. Five miles to the post office, and sometimes the family did not send or go for a whole fortnight. Five dusty miles, and most of the way uphill, and she and Mr. Clingham had at each other!

If there had been a post office within ten rods she would have tossed her head and braved it out, but five miles! She wanted to weep. She wanted to write a long letter the day she arrived, if only there had been a telephone—but there wasn't!
Miss Nina waited five long days and then she wrote. She had a heart, and she wanted to spread it with the ink, but it wouldn't do. Mr. Clingham must be taught a lesson. She mentioned that she had arrived, that she had found her aunt about as usual, that there were hollyhocks in the garden, that it was dry weather and that a goose had chased her.
Mr. Jones and his old horse and wagon came joggling along on Thursday, and when the letter had departed the schoolmarm felt relieved. Indeed, she almost felt sure that the farmer would bring her one in return. Mr. Clingham might simply write that it was his busy day—and the city was dusty—and the comet didn't amount to shucks—and he was going to the ball game, and sign it: "Your very obedient servant," but it would be a comfort. She went half a mile up the road to meet Farmer Jones on his return. She pretended she was looking for scenery.

"Got you a letter, by golly!" he shouted at her from a point 20 rods off. "Yes, got you a letter, and it's postmarked in the city. Bet it's from your fellower. Whoa, Eph! Here's the epistle."
He started to draw it from the pocket of his old lined duster, while the heart of the young lady started up a-tinkling, but it wasn't there. He searched other pockets. He looked into his hat. He hunted over the wagon. No letter.
"Jerusalem, but I've lost it!" he finally admitted.
"Oh, Mr. Jones!"
"Now don't have a fit, young lady. The harness busted on me about four miles back, and I got down to fix it. I must have lost the letter then. It was right at the foot of a hill, and there was a cow looking over the fence. I'll stir right out in the morning and look for it!"
"But I'm so sorry!" wailed Miss Nina.
"So'm I, but don't have a fit. The letter will be right there in the morning."
In the morning when Mr. Jones came along, Miss Nina insisted on driving along with him. He was full of confidence that the letter would be found, and when he finally reached the foot of a particular hill he drew rein and said:
"Right here is where the harness busted, and right here is where I got down. We'll find that letter in a jiffy."

The fatal spot was reached at last. There on a stone stood the lost letter, but Mr. Clingham himself! She was within twenty feet of him before she saw him. They were staring at each other in the most awkward way, when a rumbling in the distance was heard. From down the road came a cloud of dust, and in the midst of it could be made out Farmer Jones and his old rig. The old horse was on the run and the old wagon was creaking, and the farmer was shouting and holding a letter up to view. He drew nearer. He stopped. He flourished the letter once more, and shouted:
"Never lost the thing 'tall! Hole in my pocket, and it got into the lining. Jest found it an hour ago, and came on the gallop!"

The letter was handed down, and he turned and headed for home. As he got along to Miss Nina's aunt she was at the gate to ask:
"Well, did you find her?"
"Yes."
"Was she tickled about the letter?"
"No, no, very."
"But why?"
"Cause she'd found something else to be tickled about. I guess it was the fellow who wrote the very letter, and he was on his way out to explain something. Better get into the house and fix up a big dinner, for they'll be here within an hour and they'll both be mighty hungry. Them young folks always are after they have kissed and made up."
Profited by Their Dreams.
Mrs. Radcliffe confessed that some of the most thrilling incidents in the "Mysteries of Udolpho" were inspired by nightmares produced by supping on pork chops. Tartini, the great violinist, after dining indiscreetly, dreamed that he had made a bargain with the devil for his soul. To prove his powers the evil one seized a violin and played a sonata of exquisite beauty. Tartini awoke with the music ringing in his ears, committed the music to paper and published it as "The Devil's Sonata."

Mr. James Burnside and Mr. Steve Walker were selected to carry the pledge book in the Union precinct. Messrs. J. Wade Walker, Ernest and James Woods were selected to pool the tobacco in the Paint Lick section. With such good men as these working in the interest of the pool, it will undoubtedly be considered by a number of other people of that vicinity.

Mr. Wilson, who represents the Burley Society states that several other sections will be placed in the various precincts of Garrard county at once, as it is important that a good report be sent in from this county by Sept. 27th, as the district board will be in session at Lexington that day and will take a vote on the question as to whether the pool should be declared on or off. He also states that he will have a big tobacco meeting in Lancaster on next county court day.

Prices Long Ago.

(Washington Post.)
A news item from Pennsylvania tells of how somebody in the old commonwealth an archaeologist, has made discovery of a protest against high prices in 1804. It seems that the charge for a meal of victuals at the tavern in Butler, Pa. in 1804 was 25 cents, and the cost of half a pint of whiskey 15 cents, and an earnest and solemn protest was made against the extortion that such prices then meant though they seem ridiculously low a century later. At that time the traveler overtaken by nightfall at the hamlet was charged but 25 cents for supper, breakfast and lodging and the provender, shelter and grooming of his horse was a matter of course and computed in the charge of 25 cents. Certainly he was expected to give the boy who blackened his boots 5 cents as much or twice as much to the hostler who took care of his horse; but that was a matter of taste and not of obligation. Whiskey was sold him over the bar at 5 cents a glass a quantity that would make two outrageous drinks. The one serious trouble about our present high prices is that highwaymen stand somewhere.
